Influencers Church Atlanta started in November 2012 and was the first international church plant for Influencers Australia. Soon Influencers cumming campus followed in July 2016. Influencers Kennesaw campus a year later in July 2017 and Influencers Roswell in 2018; who also live in the state of Georgia. Pastors Ashley and Jane decided to lead the church plant as part of the ongoing commitment to being at the cutting edge of building leaders, reaching people, leading by example. History The church was founded in 1907 by the British evangelist Smith Wigglesworth. [citation needed], later known as Adelaide Assembly of God, when down-town property on Franklin Street, Adelaide, was purchased in 1944. In 1951, Tom Evans, a British missionary from India, became a senior pastor. [2] Pastors John and Beryl Jobe began as senior pastors in 1959. Their vision was to move to the suburbs where the people lived, so the Franklin St. property was sold, and the church moved to Payneham before it shifted to Main North East Road Klemzig. [1] In 1970, Andrew Evans, the eldest son of Tom Evans, became the first non-founding senior pastor of Klemzig Assembly of God. [1] Under its ministry the church grew from weekly church attendance from 150 to more than 2,000 people. [3] In 1982, the church moved to its current location in Paradise, became known as the Paradise Assembly of God, and later changed its name to the Paradise Community Church. Currently, Paradise AOG also established Paradise (later Adelaide) College of Ministries, as an accredited bible college in South Australia. In 1994, members of the Church of Paradise formed a sister church originally called Southside Christian Church, but was later renamed Edge Church. Similarly the church promoted the formation of youth living Australia. [quote needed] In 2000, Andrew Evans's eldest son Ashley and his wife Jane took over as senior pastors at Paradise, and in 2004, Andrew's younger son and 11 other church members moved to Melbourne to form Planetshakers City Church. In the 2000s, Paradise's church attendance grew to more than 6,000 people, and it expanded to three other locations (Elizabeth, West and City), introduced a Friday night service and had become the fifth largest church in Australia. [quote needed] In 2012 Paradise Community Church changed influencers church (Global) to indicate that the Church is growing internationally. As part of the change in Ps Ashley and Jane Evans had appointed Ps Josh and Shjana Greenwood as australian campus pastors as Ps Ashley and Jane took their trip to Atlanta, Georgia. As of 2019, Influencers Church will have 10 church campuses worldwide, 6 campuses in Australia and 4 campuses in the United States of America. Influence Some political figures have connections to the church, including Andrew Evans, father of the current pastor Ashley Evans, a pastor at the previous Paradise Church for 30 years and leader of the conservative family first political party. Liberal Party of Australia Foreign Minister Alexander Downer positively commented on the church's focus on God, the Bible and the message of Christ. [4] Famous individuals who have attended Paradise include Channel 9 journalist Kate Collins and actress Debra Byrne. [5] The church was also featured on A Current Affair, Compass, The Australian, and The Age. Peter Goers has often cited the church in rhetoric light. [6] Apart from media interest, the church also has a television program that screens in different countries and recently began airing every Sunday on Channel 9. Paradise also uses regular television and radio advertising for marketing communications, especially during the Christmas[7] and Easter[8] seasons. As the largest church in South Australia,[citation needed] Ashley Evans has the office of state president of the Australian Christian churches of South Australia and a former member of the National Executive of the Australian Christian Churches. His wife Jane Evans has been influential as the national board member of charity Compassion Australia. [9] Music Paradise's profile was strengthened after the inaugural Australian Idol Guy Sebastian[10][11][12] publicly announced his connection with the church as a singer. Due to the market perception of the church, the church launched its Paradise School of Music. [13] Influencers Worship's first single 'Imaginations released on September 8, 2017 hit first place on the iTunes Inspirational Charts on the date of release[citation required] with an EP 'Imagine released on October 27, 2017 with the title track being 'Imaginations.
